

The four guests of honour posing for the camera with P&O Cruises Chairman Rodney Leach (centre) are I. to R. Commodore Chief Engineer Toni Mazonowicz, Commodore John Wachter, Purser Maurice Rudderham and former Deputy Chairman of P&O Cruises Len Scott.

Commodore Chief Engineer Toni Mazonowicz joined the Orient Line in 1949 as a junior cadet. His first ships were Orion and Oronsay. He was then chosen to stand by Orsova while building at Barrow and he sailed with her on her maiden voyage.

He was promoted 2nd Engineer in 1954. He joined Oriana when she went into service in 1962. The same year he was appointed Chief Engineer, remaining with the ship until his appointment as Commodore Chief Engineer in 1983.

Chairman of P&O Cruises Rodney Leach presented him with a magnificent globe – a highly suitable gift for a mariner whose hobby is sailing – and a cheque.

Commodore Chief Engineer Toni Mazonowicz and his wife Joy with their presentation globe and cheque.